PREFATORY NOTE.

After The Ancestry of Rosalie Morris Johnson had been placed in the hands of the printers, the compiler visited Antwerp, where he was impressed by the fact that much interesting data could be added to the record of the Stier family. In the present volume a few additional English lines have also been included, and some additions and corrections made to the first volume.

AXTELL.

Generation IX.

DANIEL AXTELL,[1] a merchant of London, was granted lands in South Carolina about 1680,[2] and upon the nomination of John Archdale, Esquire, was elected a landgrave of Carolina by the Lords Proprietors, August 10, 1681.[3] He came to South Carolina about this time, but died within a year or two,[4] his son Holland succeeding him as landgrave.

Lady Rebecca Axtell, widow of Landgrave Daniel Axtell, resided at her plantation, "Newington," near the site of the present town of Summerville, for some years subsequent to the death of her husband. September 15, 1705, she was granted one thousand acres of land on the north side of Ashley River, bounded south by her own lands, east on Gershom Hawks and Moses Martin, north on James Ford and west on John Boisseau and James Ford.

By his will made December 17, 1691, and proved before Governor Ludwell, May 4, 1692, "Holland Axtell of Carolina Landgrave," bequeathed to his mother, Rebecca Axtell, a negro man named Guy, an Indian boy named Nero and all his cattle, horses and ready money, not otherwise bequeathed. To his brother-in-law John Alexander, a diamond ring; to brother-in-law Francis Turgis, two cows, two calves, a mare and her colt and a silver medal. To his sister Anne Alexander he bequeathed four silver salt cellers. To sister Mary Cuthbert, £5., to buy a ring. To Thomas Graves a cow and a calf, a pocket pistol and a hone. Witnessed by B. Waring, Elizabeth Waring and John Stevens. (Records of the Court of Ordinary of South Carolina, Book No. 1, 1692–1700, page 17.)

[6] January 13, 1696–7, Elizabeth Turgis, Rebecca Axtell and William Cantcy executed their bond to Governor Blake, for Mrs. Turgis's faithful execution of her trust as executrix of the estate of Francis Turgis. Witnessed by Charles Odingsells. (Records of the Court of Ordinary of South Carolina, Book No. 1, 1692–1700, page 285.)

[7] "Right Hon[ble] Colonel Joseph Blake of Plainsfield and Pawlets, Esq: J. P., Landgrave of Carolina, one of the true and absolute Lords and Proprietors of Carolina and twice Governor of South Carolina. Was born and educated in England. He probably followed his father to Carolina and on his death was appointed Lords Proprietors' deputy in his stead but was removed by Gov. Sothell, October 1690. The Proprietors remonstrated and reappointed Blake to Governor Ludwell's council, November 1691. He served in Governors Ludwells and Smiths councils and on Governor Smith's resignation, October 1694, succeeded him as Governor of the province and was created a Landgrave. Col. Blake provided for defence of the province 'in these times of Warr with the French King' and served as governor until Governor Archdale's arrival 1695 and then as deputy in his new council."

"In November 1696 'Governor Archdale return'd for England . . . and Joseph Blake Esq: become a Proprietary was looked upon as the fittest person to succeed him in the Government; in which office he behaved himself to the satisfaction of the Country, which he Govern'd with equal Prudence and Moderation,' Oldmixon. His administration was disturbed only by the effort, urged by the Proprietors, to settle the constitutions to suit themselves and the people." "In June 1695 he had purchased for and ultimately gave to, the Presbyterian congregation in Charlestown, the land on which the Circular church now stands." "He married December 1698, Elizabeth, widow of Francis Turgis, Esquire (member of Assembly, 1695), and daughter of Landgrave Daniel Axtell and Rebecca his wife. 'His Lady also was one of the greatest benefactors towards the ornaments of the church,' Oldmixon. She was a clever and energetic woman, careful of her husband's estates and the education of his only son, the young Proprietor. She died in 1726. Governor Blake died 7th., September, 1700, and was succeeded by his only son, Joseph Blake." (The South Carolina Historical and Genealogical Magazine, Volume I., pp. 155, 156 and 157.) Governor Joseph Blake was the son of Benjamin Blake of Plainsfield and Pawlets, Esquire, J.P., Lords Proprietors Deputy and Member of the Grand Council of Carolina. (Ibid.)

[8] Joseph Boone, a merchant, deputed by Colliton County, to present the "second representation to the Palatine and Lords Proprietaries," 1702. (Oldmixon's Carolina, Carroll's Historical Collections of South Carolina, Volume II., page 426.)

"The principal merchants in London trading to Carolina, drew up a petition to the Lord Granville against passing this act, or to order its repeal. Which petition they lodg'd with Mr. Boone, the agent of Carolina, who solicited the Palatine seven weeks before he could prevail to have a board of Proprietaries call'd." (Oldmixon's Carolina, Ibid., page 436.) The act referred to was, "An Act for establishing Religious Worship in this Province according to the Church of England; and for the erecting of Churches for the Publick Worship of God, and also for the Maintenance of Ministers, and the building convenient Houses for them." "Which Act Mr. Archdale acquaints us, 'notwithstanding its splendid Gloss, savour'd of a persecuting Spirit and of a haughty Dominion over the Clergy itself.'" (Oldmixon, page 432.)

The will of "Ann Boone of Charles Towne in the province of South Carolina," dated December 1, 1749, mentions her "Beloved Nephew the Hon^{ble} Joseph Blake Esq," and two nephews Thomas and John Izard, sons of Walter Izard. The testatrix bequeathed to her "loving Sister . . . Rebecca Moore of Philadelphia, fifty pounds current money of Pennsylvania, provided she lives to survive me." (Records of the Probate Court, Charleston, S. C. Book 1747–52, page 460.) This record is fragmentary, the word or words following "loving Sister," cannot be distinguished and date of probate missing. The date of probate has been supplied from "Days of Yore," by Mr. Poyas, viz: October 25, 1751. Thomas and John Izard, mentioned in this will, were grand-nephews of Ann Boone; Walter Izard, their father, having married Frances Turgis, daughter of Francis Turgis and Elizabeth Axtell. The nephew Joseph Blake was son of Governor Joseph Blake and Elizabeth (Axtell) Turgis. Governor Joseph Blake left two children, Joseph, above mentioned and Rebecca, who married first, George Smith, Esquire and second, Thomas Smith, Landgrave and Governor of Carolina.

Generation VIII.

John Moore, born in England in 1659, died in his seventy-fourth year, in Philadelphia, and was buried in Christ Church yard, December 7, 1732; married Rebecca Axtell, who died in Charlestown Township, Chester County, Pennsylvania, 1749–50; daughter of Landgrave Daniel Axtell of South Carolina. John Moore was liberally educated and adopted the profession of law. About 1680 he settled in South Carolina, where he is supposed to have practised law.

John Moore was appointed Secretary and Registrar of the Province of South Carolina in 1683,[1] and on September 30th of the same year commissioned Receiver-General for that province.[2] On November 6, 1683, he was reappointed Secretary[3] and in 1684 appointed Deputy by Sir Peter Colleton.[4] In 1685 John Moore appears as Escheator for South Carolina.[5] He removed from South Carolina to Pennsylvania before 1698, and became one of the most prominent lawyers of that time. In 1697, Robert Quarry, a former Governor of South Carolina, who had succeeded John Moore as Secretary of that province, was appointed Judge of the Court of Admiralty for Pennsylvania and West New Jersey.[6] Arriving in Philadelphia in 1698, Quarry appointed John Moore, Advocate for the Crown in the Admiralty Court of Pennsylvania. John Moore was appointed Attorney-General of Pennsylvania, by the Crown in 1698 and by William Penn in 1701; was Deputy

July 4, 1698. Philadelphia. Letter, Robert Quarry to Council of Trade and Plantations. On my way hither I visited Governor Nicholson, who was very importunate that I should execute the power of the Admiralty Commission and give him an account of those matters in this province. I have so much respect for him that his wishes are to me commands. As soon as I came here I made enquiry and gave him a true account of that affair, which I suppose he will lay before you; but lest it should miscarry I thought it my duty to report to you. I found that Mr. Randolph had commissioned one Mr. Radney, who lives over a hundred miles from this place, to be Register of the Court of Admiralty, and one Robert Webb, to be Marshal, who is not at present in the province, nor is it known when he will be, so that at this rate the King's business cannot be done. The Advocate, the most essential officer, is in England, and as I am informed never designs better. By Governor Nicholson's order I discoursed Mr. John Moore of this place, a practitioner of the law and the only fit man for the place, and I find him willing to undertake it if provided with a suitable allowance. (Calendar of State Papers, London, Vol. 1697–1698, page 318.)

July 1, 1698. Letter, John Moore to Governor Nicholson. Dated at Philadelphia. My best thanks for offering to me the commission of Advocate in Pennsylvania and territories and West Jersey, but it is my duty to lay before you the difficulties that will beset the assertion of such a power etc. (Ibid., page 395.)

Collins[2] writes, "the name of this family, variously written Villers, Villiers, Vileres, Vylers, &c., is doubtless descended of the ancient noble house of Villers, Seigniours of Lile-Adam in Normandy, and came into England at the time of the conquest, in 1066; for soon after Pagan de Villars was Lord of Crosby, in county Lancaster and was also possessed of Newbold, in county Nottingham, which his posterity held till the reign of Edward III. This Pagan was a witness to the foundation-charter of Roger of Poictou to the monastery of Lancaster, and flourished in the reign of William II. and Henry I. Pagan de Villars was father of Gilbert de Villars, whose son, Robert, had issue, William, the father of John de Villiers, whose son, Alexander de Villiers, was Lord of Brookesby, in Leicestershire, and by his attorney appeared against Gilbert de Glen, chaplain, in a plea against him, that he should pay eight marks, the arrears of an annual rent of four marks then owing. This Alexander was father to Sir Nicolas de Villiers, a renowned warrior, who, in 1268, following Edward I. into the Holy Land, relinquished his paternal coat of arms, viz. Sable, three Cinquefoils, Argent, in allusion to the Cinquefoile, the ancient arms of Beaumont, Earl of Leicester, from whose grant this family became possessed of lands in Leicestershire, and instead thereof assumed the Cross of St. George, the patron of his country, and five Escallop-shells on it, to shew the cause of his expedition, being ancient badges of those Croissades."

JOHN VILLIERS,[3] of Brokesby, son of Alexander, living in the sixth year of the reign of Edward the First, had issue, Sir George Villiers, of Brokesby, living seventeenth year of the reign of Edward Third, and John, mentioned below.

JOHN VILLIERS, of Brokesby, was living the second year of the reign of Edward Third; married Joane Symon and had issue, Alexander, John and William Villiers all of Brokesby.

JOHN VILLIERS, of Brokesby, son of the above John, had issue, Richard Villiers, of Brokesby.

[3] This pedigree from the Visitation of Leicestershire, as above.

Richard Villiers, "called of Brokesby," was living in the fifteenth year of the reign of Richard II.; married Elizabeth.

John Villiers, of Brokesby, son of the above, died in the fourth year of Henry IV., leaving issue, John and William.

William Villiers, "de Brokesby," son of the above John, died in the twentieth of Edward IV.; married Joane, daughter and co-heir of John Bellers; had issue the following.

John Villiers, of Brokesby, who married Elizabeth Southwell "of Euer-ingham," and had Sir John Villiers and Christopher.

Sir John Villiers,[1] of Brokesby, died in the twenty-second of Henry VII.; married Agnes, daughter of John Digby, and left among other children, Sir George Villiers, who follows.

Sir George Villiers, of Brokesby, Knight, died in 1605; married, first, Audrey, daughter of William Saunders of Harrington; married, second, Mary, daughter of Anthony Beamont. Sir George Villiers had the following children: Francis; Anne; Elizabeth; Sir William; Sir Edward, mentioned below; Sir John Villiers, created Baron of Stoke and Vicount Paurbeck by King James in 1619; Sir George Villiers, Marquis of Buckingham and afterwards Duke of Buckingham;[2] Susan, wife of Sir William Feilding, Earl of Denbigh, and Sir Christopher Villiers.

Sir Edward Villiers, son of Sir George Villiers and brother of the great Duke of Buckingham; married Barbara, daughter of Sir John St. John, of Lidiard, Wiltshire. "This Edward received the honour of Knighthood at Windsor, on September 7, 1616, and in 1620, was sent ambassador to Bohemia; also on March 10, 1622, was, by the interest of his brother, the Duke of Buckingham, advanced to the Presidentship of Munster, in Ireland, in the room of the Earl of Thomond, deceased. He lived there (saith Sir Henry Wotton) in singular estimation for his justice and hospitality; and died (September 7, 1626) as much to the grief of the whole province, as ever any Governor did, before his religious Lady, who was of a sweet and noble disposition, adding much to his honour. He was buried in

[1] "In 1487, he brought forces to the aid of the King, against the Earl of Lincoln, Lambert Simnel, and other adherents, and behaved with great valour in the battle of Stoke, near Newark-upon-Trent, June 16, when they were defeated, and the Earl of Lincoln slain. (Collins' Peerage, Volume IV., page 174.)

Note.—There is evidently an error in the dates of death of Sir John Villiers and his son Sir George, as shown in the Visitation and by Collins.

[2] George, the great Duke of Buckingham, murdered on Saturday, August 23, 1628, by John Fenton. He married Lady Catharine Manners, daughter and sole heir to Francis, Earl of Rutland. (Collins, IV., pp. 184 and 185.)

the Earl of Cork's chapel at Youghall, where these lines were put up to his memory:"

"Munster may curse the time that Villiers came,
To make us worse, by leaving such a name;
Of noble parts, as none can imitate,
But those whose hearts are married to the state:
But if they press to imitate his fame,
Munster may bless the time that Villiers came."

"The said Sir Edward's Lady was Barbara, eldest daughter of Sir John St. John of Lidiard Tregose, in county Wilts, and niece to Sir Oliver St. John, created Viscount Grandison, in Ireland, January 3, 1620, with limitation of that honour to her posterity; and by her had issue three daughters; 1st Barbara, married to Thomas Wenman, son and heir of Philip, Lord Viscount Wenman, and after his decease, to James Howard, Earl of Suffolk; she died December 13, 1681, aged 59, and is buried at Saffron Walden in Essex; 2. Anne; and 3. Ellen. Sir Edward had also four sons," William, below; John; George and Edward. Of these, John succeeded his brother William, but died without male issue. George, who, on the death of his brother John, was Lord Viscount Grandison. Edward, wounded at the battle of Newbury, September 20, 1643; knighted April 7, 1680, by Charles II.; and made Knight Marshal of his household; Colonel of the Duchess of York's Regiment, and Governor of Tinmouth castle, buried in Westminster Abbey, July 2, 1689; married Lady Frances, daughter to Theophilus Howard, Earl of Suffolk. Edward, son of the last named Edward was created Earl of Jersey.[6]

William Villiers,[7] son of Sir Edward Villiers and Barbara St. John, "succeeded his father in estate, and in 1630, his uncle in the title of Viscount Grandison. On the breaking out of the rebellion, he adhered to Charles I., and signalized himself on several occasions, but being wounded at the siege of Bristol, July 26, 1643, he was carried to Oxford, where he died in August following, in the 30th year of his age; and has a noble monument erected to his memory in the cathedral of Christ-church (where he was buried) by Barbara, Duchess of Cleveland, his only daughter and heir, who was married to Roger Palmer, Earl of Castlemain, in Ireland, by whom she had no issue; but to Charles II., who, on August 3, 1670, created her Duchess of Cleveland, &c., she bore Charles, Duke of Cleveland and Southampton; Henry, Duke of Grafton, and George, Duke of Northumberland; Anne Palmer Fitzroy, 3d wife of Thomas Lennard, Earl of Sussex; Charlotte Fitzroy, married to Henry Lee,[8] Earl of Litchfield; and Barbara, a nun."

In virtue of which we have delivered to them this passport, signed with our hand, at the foot of which is the seal of our Consulate. Given at Amsterdam, this second of August of the year 1794. SYLVANUS BOURNE

By Thomas Pinckney, Minister Plenipotentiary of the United States of America at the Court of Great Britain etc.

It having been represented unto me by a respectable citizen of the U. S. A., that the following Family of Brabant, lately resident at Antwerp, but now residing at Amsterdam, to wit, M^r. Stier d'Artzelaer, his wife and Daughter, M^r. Charles Stier and his wife, M^r.

"Mr. H. J. Stier, Mr. Artzeler and lady; Mr. J. M. Vanhem lady and child; Mr. C. J. Stier and lady; Miss Stier and two servants."

POSTSCRIPT.

"The Ship Adriana, Fitzpatrick, arrived at the fort, sailed from the Texel the 26th of August and from land's end the 7th. The ship Peggy, Elliot, for this port and the Republican, Simon, for Baltimore came out in company with the Adriana."

"By the Adriana from Amsterdam we learn, that the Dutch had not recovered from their fear of a visit from the Carmagnols even at Amsterdam. The arrival of several respectable passengers in this ship, and the known prowess of the French give ground to consider those fears as by no means chimerical. The army of the Sans culottes is no longer weakened by being led by ci-devants, we have, therefore, no longer to fear their taking a French leave as they did under Dumourier."

"Brussels, July 24.

"The guillotine is permanent here. Two butchers and three brewers have already perished by its blade. Our mayor as well as those members of the States of Brabant, who, from their attachment to the cause of French Jacobinism, hoped to be well used by republicans, have been taken up, and sent to the revolutionary tribunal at Paris.

"All sorts of merchandize and furniture are in requisition, and all moveable property of any value is carried into France. The statue of Prince Charles is sent to Lisle. Contributions as well as men, are raised, and every inhabitant is ordered under pain of death, to deliver into the hands of the Commissioners all the specie he possesses, and to accept its value in assignats at par."

CERTIFICATE OF RESIDENCE.

In view of the petition addressed to the Central Administration of the department of the Two Neethes, by the citizen Louvrex, attorney for Henry Joseph Stier, Marie Louise Peeters, his wife, Charles Jean, his son and Rosalie Eugenie, his daughter, tending to obtain for them the erasure of their names from the list of emigrants.

In view of the certificates numbered 1, 2, 3 and 4, declaring their arrival at Philadelphia, on the 13th of October, 1794, as well as their residence in that city and in Alexandria.

In view of the passport, granted them in Amsterdam by the Consul General of the United States of America, on the 2nd of August, 1794.

In view, finally, of the resolution of representative Le Febore of Nantes, under date of 21st Fructidor, year 3,[4] authorizing the citizen Henry Joseph Stier to reenter Belgium.

Considering that the parties above named, absented themselves from their native land before the entry of the French, it is clear that they are included in Article VIII of the resolution of the 27th Thermidor, year 2,[5] which has legal force and which imperatively and without exception, considers as emigrants, all absentees who do not return within a fortnight.

Considering that the preceeding resolution of representative Le Febore of Nantes, while militating in favor of Henry Joseph Stier, cannot annul the true intent of the law of the 25th Brumaire,[6] which granted to the rigid term fixed by the resolution of the 27th of Thermidor, year 3,[7] an extension of three months, following the publication of the act of the 9th of Vendemiaire, year 4.[8]

Considering that the above principles are defined in a positive manner in the resolution of the executive directorate, under date of the 4th Fructidor, year 4,[9] concerning the petition of citizens Willins and Dotreugor.

The said resolution regards as emigrants, all absentees who have not returned within three months from the publication of the law of the 9th Vendemiaire, year 4,[10] unless included in the exceptions designated by the law of the 25th Brumaire, year 3.[11]

Considering that they cannot argue in their favor, exception No. 4, of the first paragraph No. 1, of the act of the 25th Brumaire, year 3; and since, far from being generally known as engaged in a business which requires short and frequent absence, it has been ascertained to the contrary that they have never before made a voyage of this nature and that they are not identified with trade of any kind.

Considering that the passport alleged by them is without value, as the Republic can and must only recognize in cases of this nature, certificates authenticated by its agents. The representatives of foreign powers have no responsibility whatever on this subject and can act with intentions of which they are not required to give an account to the French Government.

Considering that the various attestations of the French Consuls in Philadelphia as well as Alexandria, only furnish proof of residence of the petitioners in a neutral country, as required for the surveillance of their properties in that country.

Considering that even if it were true that they were proprietors in the United States of America, this exception is not included in any article of the laws respecting emigrants.

The Municipal Commission of the canton of Antwerp, hearing the Commissary of the executive directorate, is of the opinion that there is no ground to admit the petition of the citizen Louvrex, praying that the citizen Henry Joseph Stier, Marie Louise Peeters, his wife, Charles Jean and Rosalie Eugenie Stier be erased from the list of emigrants.

Given at the meeting on the 28th of Brumaire, 5th year[12] of the Republic.

Maryland

I, Alexander C. Hanson L.L.D., and Chancellor of the State of Maryland, do hereby certify that nearly four years past, I have known Henry Joseph Stier, who arrived in the City of Annapolis in the said State, some time before the month of December in the year of our Lord seventeen hundred and ninety five, that the said Henry Joseph Stier is now living and resident in the said City; and that he hath resided therein, or within a mile thereof, during the whole term aforesaid carrying on, as I have understood, and believed, certain commercial concerns.

I further certify, that the said Henry Joseph Stier hath produced to me the certificate of John Leamy, James Crawford, Samuel Sterett and George Harrison, citizens of the United States of America, resident merchants of the City of Philadelphia, which certificate is dated the 20[th]. day of November 1795, and purports that the said Stier arrived in Philadelphia in October 1794, and was there resident at the time of their attestation. The said certificate appears to be authenticated by the certificate under the hand and notarial seal of Clement Biddle, notary public of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, and I have reason to believe, and do believe, that the said certificates are authentic, just, and true in every part.

Given under my hand, and the great seal of the State of Maryland, of which, by virtue of my office, I am Keeper, this thirtieth day of September Seventeen hundred and ninety nine.

Prefecture of the Two Neethes 4th Bureau Police — Liberty — Equality

Emigration

Antwerp, the 9 Germinal, year 10.[15]

The Prefect of the department of the two Neethes
To the Minister of the Police General.
Citizen Minister:

The Citizen Henri Joseph Stier, proprietor, domiciled at Antwerp, has been inscribed on the list of emigrants, of the department of the Two Neethes, the 19th Fructidor, year 4.[16] He has made the claim within the prescribed time and desires to take advantage of the dispositions of No. 2, of the 1st article of the resolution of the Consuls of the 28th Vendemiaire, year 9.[17]

Henri Joseph Stier and his family, left this city during the month of June, 1794, solely through fear of being victims of the events of the War and the agitation of the Revolution.

They retired to Philadelphia, where they arrived the end of October of the same year and resided there as well as in Alexandria, without interruption, until the time of their return to Belgium.

They presented several claims to the Central Administration of this department, in consequence of which, this administration convinced of the error which had given rise to their inscription on the list of emigrants, erased them therefrom provisionally, by its resolution of the 3rd Floreal, year 5.[18]

All the information relating to this affair has been transmitted to the Bureau of your Ministry.

You, citizen Minister, will therefore please have the kindness to have the same presented to you. Several members of this family have already been definitely erased by resolution of Consuls. Those who have not obtained this grace, having confidence in the kindness of the Government, manifested by the treaty of Luneville, await the act which will finally return them to their family and fellow citizens.

The family of Henri Joseph Stier, has, through its benevolence, gained the affection and consideration of the inhabitants of this city and the granting to them the favor they solicit would mean the acquirement of new rights to their recognition of the Government.

Salutation and Consideration,

C. HERBOUVILLE.

"Translation from the Flemish of an Extract from Henry Joseph Stier's Journal, folio 25, Book B., Anno 1803."

My daughter Rosalie's account.

My daughter Rosalie having married on the 11th. of June 1799, George Calvert at Annapolis, State of Maryland in America. On account of the Revolutionary circumstances in the Netherlands it was impossible to make an equitable and proportional dotation; we have determined therefore to give her the equivalent of what we have given our other children, which is a portion of what she will receive at the death of her parents. That is to say the goods and chattles that follow.

The plantation, situated at Bladensburgh in America, with all the lands, woods and buildings, furniture etc., exactly as we have inhabited it, and have left it. We only except the pictures which we reserve for ourselves. We give the said plantation to her, in full possession and property as legitimate portion of what will come to her at our death. We estimated the said property at the price of one hundred thousand gulden, which sum equals forty thousand dollars. We give also bonds to the amount of 30,000 florins. A sum which equals what we have given to our other married children. In case these bonds should be annulled we promise to give her the said amount in other funds. Finally, in case our fortune should diminish in value we promise to give her a dotation equal to that given to our other children, amounting to 150,000 florins or yearly the sum of $4000, till complete payment of the said sum of 150,000 florins.

On account of the troubled state of affairs at the time of her marriage, it was not possible to take legal measures to settle her marriage contract; we give her in compensation an annual sum of $2000 to date from June 11th. 1799, till December 1803, that is to say for four years and six months.

We have credited her with $9000, of which sum she has already received $4,800, which leaves still due a balance of $4,200.

Riversdale, March 18, 1821.

Henry J. Stier, Esquire.
Antwerp.
Dear Sir:

The painful task devolves upon me of informing you of the death of my beloved wife and your much valued Daughter, after an illness of four months, confined to the bed the whole time; and suffering great pain which she bore with the greatest fortitude and resignation, she left us on the 13 Instant at 1 o'clock, my only consolation was, that her last moments were easy and I think happy, for she said to me, "Oh how mercifull God is to me, I never could have supposed that I could die so easy." My Dear Rosalie's health had been bad for six years and upwards, I do not think in that time she enjoyed one week of good health at a time. We consulted the best Physicians that could be found in this Country, among them D^r^. Physick who is the most eminent and six others, but they could not ministrate to her health. At the particular request of my most lamented wife I shall write to M^rs^. van Havre and inclose her a description of her case, drawn up by D^r^. Sim who has attended M^rs^. Calvert for many years and who was constantly with her in the latter part of her illness. Be assurred my dear Sir that nothing has been omitted by her afflicted husband that could either relieve or comfort her in all her illness

With great Esteem and respect
Yours

Geo. Calvert

Riversdale, Aug. 1, 1821.

Henry J. Stier, Esq^r^.
My dear and Respected Sir:

Your kind and very affectionate letter of June 1, I received a few days ago. I have a great pleasure in informing you that my dear children are all well, Caroline is a great comfort to me, but yet I am as one lost, my home is no longer dear to me; I have improved Riversdale very much, yet have no pleasure in any thing I have done, because I have no one to participate with me. I have lost my confidant, my ablest counselor, I am happy in my children, they are disposed to do any thing to please me, but they can in no way supply the loss. If I could leave my property (which I cannot at present do) I should certainly come to Europe and take my two eldest with me. George shall visit Europe as soon as his education is finished, which will be in two years. You inquired of my dear Caroline where her Mother was buried, the spot was selected by herself many years ago, on the rising ground N. W. of the house at about a quarter of a mile from it, where her four children were interred. I have had prepared at Philadelphia a handsome white marble stone to cover the grave with suitable inscriptions upon it.

With sentiments of the most sincere esteem and respect I remain your affectionate son in law

Antwerp the 25^th^. June 1821.

George Calvert Esq^r^., Bladensburg,
Maryland.
Dear Sir:

We hardly know what terms to employ for announcing one of the greatest misfortunes which could befall our family, the loss of our dearest father. He became unwell on the 8^th^. in the evening and died at two o'clock in the evening of the 22^d^. of this month, at his country seat of the "Mick", in the midst of his children, having had the happiness to preserve his presence of mind till the last, he had time to prepare for the awfull moment and received the Sacraments with true Christian piety. He was buried this morning at Aertselaer in the family tomb, where rests our dear Mother.

The pain which this second stroke gives us all is easier felt than described, we willingly would attempt to offer you some motives of consolation but feel totally unequal to the task. In a few days when a little more collected we will write you again, in the mean time we remain Dear Sir

Your affectionate and afflicted
Brothers

Gentl°.

We deem it our duty to acquaint you with the melancholy loss we have sustain'd by the death of our Dear Father Henry J. Stier Esqr. He supported the pains of a severe illness of fourteen days with his wonted fortitude and died in the morning of the 22d. inst.

We take the liberty of requesting you to forward the inclosed, it announces the melancholy tidings to Mr. G. Calvert.

We remain with sincere esteem

Antwerp the 10th. July 1821.

George Calvert Esqr.

Dear Sir:

On the 25 of last month we wrote you the letter of which you have a copy at foot.

Since beginning to look about us, we observe your absence or the want of a proper power of attorney of you, it is almost entirely out of our power to do the needfull for our common interest, which if that situation was to last would suffer considerably, not only on account of the transactions in which your interference cannot be dispensed with but because the justice of peace has a right to put the whole under his seal and in that case we could not move any thing without his interference, which would cost an incalculable sum.

In consequence, Dear Sir, we entreat you to come over as speedily as you possibly can, if however your health, the situation of your family, or your business should prevent your coming over, we must beg you to send us the inclosed power of attorney, executed in favor of one of those four persons: the Baron van der Werve de Schilde; his second wife was a sister of the mother of our dear Rosalia. Mr. Antony Stier, brother of our late father, those two gentlemen are both upwards (consent) that you name them, to name them together, to act jointly or separately. The Baron I. J. J. Vinck de Wuestwezel, his mother was sister to our late father and his wife's father was brother of the same, he is a Member of our Provincial States and has been Member of our General States. Mr. Albert Cogels, his mother was sister of our late father, he is a Banker, and has been Member of our General States. You have render'd us so many kind services that we think it our duty to offer our selves, should you adopt that measure, we beg you to name us both together, to act jointly or separately. Should you not be able to come over nor approve of sending a power of attorney you may send a confidential person with your power of attorney to act for you. Whatever means you adopt dont lose time but act as speedily as possible for a day lost may cost us more than you may be aware of.

We beg leave to add that the easiest way of settling our affairs would be your coming over for you readily conceive there are many things which one may do himself to which an attorney cannot agree.

In the meantime be assurred, dear Calvert, we will spare no pains to promote our common interest. In a few days you will again hear of us. We remain as ever dear sir,

Your very affectionate Brothers

C. J. Stier and J. M. A. van Havre

Antwerp the 15 of Sept: 1821.

G. Calvert, Esq^{r}.

Dear Brother:

Your letters of the 4th. of June and 1st. of August have been received as also those of Caroline by the way of Amsterdam, it is extremely painfull to us to think that shortly after having written those, you will have received ours of the 25th. of June, communicating to you the irreparable loss we had sustained by the Death of our Dear Father; on the 10th. July we wrote you again, begging you in case you should not come to Europe your self to send us without delay your power of attorney. This letter was repeated by duplicate on the 27th. of July and again on the 10th. of August by copies of both, when we sent you an authentic copy of the will of our late Father. In the uncertainty whether it may have been possible for you to leave the U. S. A., and anxious for the sake of our common intrest to promote the liquidation of the inheritance, we beg you to send us as soon as possible a statement of the respective values of all the property our late Father died possessed of in America. You will observe that there being orphan children, the estimation must be made in a lawfull form and approved of by the guardian, the estimation of the several kinds of property must be that of their value on the 22^{d}. of June last, date of the opening of the inheritance and of the inventory. If your journey to Europe was resolved upon but delayed on account of necessary preparations we beg you to send us at all events as a provisional means the power of attorney as well as the estimation; the delay of those being calculated to produce the most pernicious consequences.

We hope dear Brother etc.

Philadelphia, Sept: 21, 1821.

My dear Brothers:

I have just returned to this place with my daughter Caroline from an excursion to Canada, we have been absent from home more than two months, Caroline's health has been delicate but I now hope she will enjoy as good health as she ever did, my other children are all well. George I left in Cambridge, where he has the reputation of being a very clever fellow. I fear he may be a little spoilt by the ladies as he is thought by them very handsome, you shall see him as soon as he graduates. There is a request of yours in your last letter which if made in the first instance might have been complied with, that is, letting the dividends remain in the Bank, this I have not done, having made a great addition to the Riversdale Estate by the purchase of "Kop Tavern" and the erection of a very fine mill at Bladensburgh; I have found it necessary to take most of dividends to enable me to make the payments, as they have all been employed for the benefit of my children and will be accounted for in the settlement. Caroline and I rejoice at the improvement of M^{rs}. van Havre's health and pray it may be quite restored, I remain dear Brothers,

Affectionately yours,

To C. J. Stier and
J. M. A. van Havre.

Geo. Calvert

Antwerp, Jan. 11th. 1822.

G. Calvert, Esqr.

Dear Brother,

Let me dear brother express my ardent wishes for your happiness and that of your children. . . . We trust Dear Calvert that if it be possible for you to visit us you will not leave your Caroline and Eugenia and their younger sister behind, it is only with you they could undertake such a journey while your sons may any time perform it by themselves and find it an easy task. . . . We entreat you Dear Brother to take at our common expense a clerk to draw up the accounts of all that has been done for our father and ourselves since the last accounts sent us by our dear Sister.

On our part we have as early as the beginning of August sent out experienced persons to make estimations of the landed property; a rainy season such as we never experienced (that of 1816 excepted) has interrupted this task which will be resumed with the first post.

The whole of the property in Europe belonging to both Paternal and Maternal inheritances exclusively of f. 130,000 or $52,000, held in dotation by Mrs. van Havre and an equal sum held by my self may at a rough calculation amount to the sum of 750,000 guilders or $300,000, nominal value, the real value of which will only be ascertained by the completion of the estimation. Again on a superficial view we find that on this side of the ocean there will be a landed property twice the value of what our father once held in America, that is to say twice the value of your house and lands of Bladensburg, Spurriens, Dorsey, Batlands etc., together.

We intend dear Brother, to propose to you, that you should keep all the property in Lands in America and we all that of the same description in Europe, the latter consist in the house our Father inhabited in Antwerp, the castle of "Cleydael," the country seat of the "Mick," a tract of wood at Loenhout, and a farm at Contich, some smaller farms in different villages in the vicinity of the "Mick," three farms and some separate tracts of Lands in the lower grounds called "Poltlers."

The remainder consists of mortgaged rents, obligations, public stock, all susceptible of an easy division. The magnificent Gallery of Pictures left by our Dear Father has been with us the matter of long consideration, that rare and beautiful collection is not susceptible of a division among us, one single portrait; the "Chapeau de Paille," being worth as much as all the rest together, thus two lots only could be formed, and one of the three inheriting branches was to have no share, we finally resolved upon a public sale as a means which bringing forth the real value of the whole collection, left every one of the inheritors at full liberty either to acquire at the sale by making the highest offer, such particular parts as would please him, or if he had no such inclination, then to leave the contest to others. Not knowing Dear Brother whether you or your children may have any inclination to aim at the acquisition of any of those pictures, I beg you in case you should desire any, to communicate your intentions, I send enclosed a list of the whole on which you will easily discover some of those you have so long taken care of. I have as much as was in my power joined notes respecting their merits and price and will send you a more descriptive catalogue, if you think it proper Dear Brother, you will have the advertisement published in the U. S. A., where besides private amateurs it might fall in the plans of the Government to begin the formation of a National Museum, with pictures so genuine and so well known. In fact this extraordinary collection seems to be better calculated to be the splendid ornament of a palace or a National Gallery than to be modestly hidden within the narrow bounds of a Gentleman's dwelling. Hoping soon to have a letter from you I now Dear Brother embrace you most tenderly and also your dear children, for me, my wife and all your friends.

Yours affectionately,

C. J. Stier

Antwerp, March 26th. 1822.

Dear Brother,

We received yours of the 22nd. of Dec., and 3 of Jan., last with the enclosed estimations of the property which our dear late Father was possessing in America on the 22nd. of June last. Receive dear Calvert our thanks to you and your daughter for the care you have given to this investigation. . . .

This information is the more essential as by the death of our Aunt Stier-Guyot, who died on the 11th. of March, the inheritance of her late husband Joseph Stier enjoyed by her during her life time is now devolved to the different branches of the family of Stier, seven in number; thus one seventh part on our late father, in whose name we are to amount with the family for $1000 new 6 per C., $11082.20 nominal 3 pr C. and 10 Alexandrian Bank shares, all belonging to that inheritance.

After long and anxious expectation we obtained on the end of last month the complete estimation of the land property in Europe, amounting to Guilders, 418,156.11 or $167,262.62. Our plan of division mentioned in my letter of the 11th. of Jan: was going to receive immediate execution when an illness of Mrs. van Havre interrupted it. I hope we will soon be able to resume them. I enclose a list of the articles of Gold and Silver which being old fashioned will not sell above the value of the metal except the medals for which some amateurs may be found.

Another list contains the jewels, the principal part of which as you will observe consist of Rose stones, flat bottomed, that kind of diamond is less valuable than the brilliant which latter is terminating in a point and is the diamond now in fashion. Neither the rings, bracelets or earrings could be worn in their present forms, if you or your children wish to have any of those objects at the prices joined please dear brother to give your directions either to Mr. van Havre or myself. Neither he or I are in a situation to take any of the diamonds, as my wife has a complete set of brilliants and so has Mrs. van Havre. In silver plate we also furnished our selves at the time of beginning house-keeping. Our dear Father after his return was wholly engrossed with agricultural pursuits and the enjoyment of his Picture Gallery, never took the pains of furnishing his house which had been totally devastated during his absence. The little selection which he carried to America and back again forms still the most interesting part of the furniture, which consisting of articles of little bulk may be divided among your children, Mrs. van Havre and my self, in three lots. The rest of the furniture, plate and jewels may be disposed of to the best advantage immediately after the sale of the pictures in the beginning of August, the sale of the pictures being fixed on the 29th. of July next.

I now take leave from you dear Calvert

Antwerp, August 9, 1822.

G. Calvert, Esqr.

Dear Brother,

Our late father's collection of pictures was sold on the 29 of July as you will see by the statement enclosed. I purchased for you the "piece" representing Romulus and Remus, for 57,80 florins or $22.88. The Boar Hunt bought by an English gentleman, flor. 167,20 or $66.88, exceeded your orders. The King of the Netherlands acquired the Roman Daughter N°. 2 and also Nos. 5 and 6 of the catalogue, he contended almost to the last for the "Chapeau de Paille", adjudicated to Messrs van Nieuwenhuysen of Brussels and Smith of London, dealers in Pictures, who will gain considerably by publishing engravings showing the original and disposing of it afterwards.

I bought for myself the two fine Portraits by Van Dyck, Nos. 3, 4, besides Nos. 7, 8, 26, 30, 31, 36, 40, 42, 46, 49, 80, 81 and 83. Mr. van Havre bought N°. 32 and Mr. della Faille N°. 71.

The whole of the collection sold for about f. 12,000 more than the original price, we need not wonder if the Roman Daughter and several other of the most valuable pictures sold lower, since in purchasing them our Father had to contend with wealthy families who were reluctant to part with them.

I had expected a higher price for the celebrated "Chapeau de Paille," persuaded that a number of English noblemen and above them all George IV would want it at any price, I cannot conceive how they left it to a merchant, but so it is, Wishing dear Brother, etc

Nota M^r^. de Vries d'Amsterdam etait Chargé d'Acheter des tableaux pour le comte du Gouvernement des Pays Bas.

The following descriptions of eight of the above mentioned paintings, have been taken from A Catalogue Raisonne, by John Smith. (London, 1830.)

1. "The Chapeau De Paille. A portrait of a young lady (said to be Mademoiselle Lundens,) wearing a black Spanish hat, adorned with black and white feathers, and elegantly attired, according to the costume of the time, in a black velvet bodice and skirt, with scarlet sleeves and white epaulettes, tied with rose-colour ribbons, and a tawny-colour scarf, thrown in a negligent manner over the shoulders; the hands are passed over each other in front, the left one holding the scarf. Her complexion is most delicately fair, but the hat, inclining forward, throws a shade over the upper part of the face, which, by the reflex from the white bosom, is rendered beautifully transparent. She is represented passing before the exterior of a window on a fine sunny day, the effect of which is strikingly denoted in the brilliancy of the colouring. 2 ft. 7 in. by 1 ft. 10 in. P. Tradition states that this beautiful picture was so highly prized by the artist, that he never could be induced to part with it. At his death, in 1640, it was inserted in the Catalogue of his Pictures (lot 122) which were sold privately in detail, and, when his widow died, passed into the family of Lundens, with whom it remained as a joint property, until a few years back, when it was purchased by the late proprietor, Baron Stiers d'Aertselaer, of M. Van Haveren, for 50,000 fs., 2000 l. On the decease of the Baron, it was sold for the benefit of his children, in a collection of other valuable pictures at Antwerp, on the 29th of July, 1822, and was purchased by the Writer, in conjunction with another person, for 32,700 flo., which, with the addition of 10 per cent., and other incidental expenses, is about 3000 gs. . . . Shortly after the picture arrived in England, it was sent by His Majesty's express desire to Carlton House, where it remained for a fortnight. . . . In the month of March following (1823), it was exhibited at Mr. Stanley's Rooms, Old Bond Street, and never did any other picture receive such universal admiration and applause. . . . The picture was sold by the Writer, the same year, to the Right Honourable Robert Peel, in whose possession it now is, forming the nucleus of his choice collection. Mr. Reynolds has engraved a print of it, in mezzotinto; and there is also one in line, by Tayler, done from an old black chalk drawing." (Vol. II. Pages 228–230.)

Note: The Chapeau De Paille is now (1907) in the National Gallery, London. R. W. J.

2. "Roman Charity. Now in the Hague Gallery." (Vol. II. Page 113.)

3. "A full-length Portrait of the Chevalier Roy, Counsellor to Prince Ferdinand, Governor of the Low Countries." (Vol. III. Page 104.)

5. Full length Portrait of Francis Vander Borcht. Hague Gallery. (Ibid, page 38.)

6. A Portrait of R. P. Michael Ophovius, a Dominican Monk. Now in the Hague Gallery. (Vol. II. Page 113.)

9. "The Prodigal Son. Sir Joshua Reynolds, in his Tour through Flanders, mentions this picture, which was then in the collection of M. Pieters, 1781." "It was in the Writer's possession, for sale, in 1823–4, at 800 l. Now in the possession of W. Wilkins, Esq." (Ibid, page 227.)

11. Portrait of Philip Rubens, the artist's brother. Now in the possession of Baron Mecklenburg. (Ibid, page 227.)

Charles J. Stier, Esquire.
Antwerp,

Dear Brother,

The sale of the Pictures did not equal my expectations, but have no doubt that more could not have been obtained for them. I regret you did not purchase the Boar Hunt for me, 'tho it did sell for a little more than my limit, I wished to have had for my children one good picture of their Grand Father's collection, which they will frequently hear mentioned.

My son George will not be of age for one year, by that time I hope you will see him in Europe, where I will send him to complete his studies, he will graduate the first of September next. My dear Caroline has been addressed by several, has given the preference to a M^r. Morris of Philadelphia, a man of good connections, a nephew of M^rs. Powell, he has little property but of respectable standing at the bar, and appears to be of amiable disposition. I shall consent to their union as soon as I can say what she will have to expect.

With best wishes for the improvement of your health in which my children all join, I remain affectionately and

Sincerely your Brother
GEO. CALVERT

Antwerp, April 17th. 1823.

M^r. Calvert.

Dear Brother,

The contemplated union of my "Godshild" Caroline with the man of her's as well as of her Father's choice is a matter of great satisfaction to us all, and would have made the same happy impression on the feelings of our late most beloved and respected father, whose wishes to that effect you will find consigned in all his letters.

Could not dear Brother this happy event procure us the pleasure of embracing you in Antwerp, your Carolina married, would be in a situation to take care of those of her brothers and sisters whom you should not think proper to bring with you, do think on it Dear Brother, do come next fall with George and Eugenia, to enter together with us on the most agreeable

We have lost, on the 30[th]. of March last our worthy and beloved uncle, Anthony Stier, who so lately proved once more his kind disposition to his relations by representing your children at the execution of the act of division, aged 73 years, he had been languishing since last summer, no medical assistance could stop his gradual decline; having raised no children he left his property to the five branches of the family Stier, of which our father was one, his widow, born Lunden, enjoys the revenue during her life time.

My absence from home, (on account of our common interests) compels me once more to terminate; thus briefly repeating the expression of the tenderest affection for you, dear Brother, and your children,

Guillaume and Jacques Calvart were Sheriffs of Antwerp for several years. Guillaume de Calvart, Lord of Zeveren, died July 22, 1633 and Jacques de Calvart, also Lord of Zeveren, died November 20, 1633. Their seals are still in the archives of Antwerp, from which it appears that the arms of these two Calvarts were similar to those granted to Sir George Calvert.

14. Sixth line, for "Verstegan" read Verstegen.

29. Twenty third line read, married February 3, 1774.

31. Twentieth line, for "born" read baptized.

31. Concerning the "Riversdale" property. George Calvert received this estate from his father-in-law, Henri Joseph Stier, who had erected the mansion during his sojourn in America.

69. Sixth line. An abstract of the will of David Franks, of Isleworth, County of Middlesex, England, formerly of Philadelphia, appears in The Pennsylvania Magazine, Volume XXIX., page 315. It was dated July 30, 1785 and proved July 22, 1794, and mentions his four children, Abigail Hamilton, Jacob Franks, Moses Franks and Rebecca Johnson. From this it appears that the information gathered from the volume quoted on page 69 is erroneous as to the place of David Frank's death, which was evidently in England.

76. Twenty seventh line; for year of death of Phebe Guest, read 1768.

116. In the text the name of the wife of John Christopher Kuhn is given as Margaret, daughter of Marx Reichss, which is in accordance with earlier researches. After the sketch had been written the result of an investigation made in the present year was received, in which the name appears as Fuchs (see page 117). The original is doubtless difficult to decipher, and it is possible that neither is quite correct. There will be noticed other variations in the spelling of names and places in the two abstracts, both of which are given in the foot-notes.

There is no question that in the baptismal record of the children at Hütten, the mother is entered as nee Ruchin (page 118).
